

OKEANOS BEACH BOUTIQUE HOTEL

CULTURAL HERITAGE POLICY

Cultural heritage represents the collective legacy of both tangible creations and intangible expressions passed down through generations. It embodies physical elements—such as monuments, historic buildings, artworks, manuscripts, and landscapes—as well as non-material aspects including traditions, folklore, languages, and accumulated wisdom. It also encompasses natural environments that hold cultural or historical importance and contribute to biodiversity.

Recognizing the value of these assets, our company emphasizes the responsibility of every visitor and employee to act respectfully and to contribute to their preservation. When visiting or engaging with cultural or heritage sites, the following principles must be observed to ensure their long-term protection:

- Avoid leaving litter or any waste at heritage or natural sites.
- Do not pick plants, collect natural specimens, or disturb wildlife.
- Never remove or damage any object or element belonging to the site, including stones, rocks, or similar materials.
- Comply with all posted or locally stated regulations, which may include:
- No photography or video recording where restricted.
- Do not touch displayed items or artifacts.
- Refrain from smoking in designated cultural or sacred areas.
- Maintain silence and a respectful attitude.
- Dress appropriately when visiting culturally sensitive locations (e.g., avoid swimwear, flip-flops, or revealing clothing).
- Avoid any action that could be interpreted as disrespectful toward the site or its traditions.

Through this policy, our company reaffirms its commitment to safeguarding cultural and natural heritage, promoting responsible tourism, and ensuring that these treasures remain preserved and appreciated for future generations.
